PROPOSALS

For Publishing, by Subscription,

THE COMPLETE WORKS OF

SIR WALTER SCOTT:

With a Biography: being the first American (and only) edition which contains the Author's last additions and illustrations, arranged upon their respective pages.

A COMPLETE and uniform edition of the various productions of the great 'Minstrel of the North,' is a desideratum with the American public. No library is complete without them, and no edition extant is sufficiently compact for such a repository; while the endless number of editions, without any uniformity in size, heretofore published, besides being exceedingly cumbrous, are far too voluminous and expensive to be within the reach of the great majority of readers. The undersigned therefore announce, that they have now in press, and will issue, an edition of the Works of Sir Walter Scott, which will embrace all his Poems, Novels, Histories, Biographies, and Fugitive Compositions, as well as the Biography and Private Correspondence, now in the course of publication in England, under the superintendence of Mr. Lockhart.

1st. In Parts: each Part embracing as much matter as is contained in two volumes of the present editions of the Waverley Novels, which will be put at the unprecedented low price of THIRTY SEVEN AND A HALF CENTS.

2d. Two parts will appear each month; but should the publishers find the work to meet the patronage they anticipate, FOUR PARTS will be issued monthly.

3d. The whole will be completed in seven volumes, or forty eight parts.

The paper on which the above is now printing, has been made expressly for the purpose; the present parts may, therefore, be considered a fair specimen, in every respect, of the whole work; but, should dissatisfaction arise with any subscriber, owing to an inferior article being offered, he may discontinue at any time, and have the amount paid returned.

Note.—The publication of the first volume is deferred until the receipt of the Biography, Private Correspondence, and the New Edition of the Author's Poetical Works, with 'contemporary criticism—various readings—and correspondence with some of the most eminent persons of the time when the Poems first appeared,' now in the course of publication in England.

Volume 1 will be ornamented with an excellent Portrait of Sir Walter Scott.

JOB PRINTING

EXECUTED, with neatness and despatch, at the Office of the PITTSBURGH GAZETTE. April 26

DAILY PITTSBURGH GAZETTE.

MONDAY AFTERNOON, SEPTEMBER 2, 1833.

PENNSYLVANIA CANAL.—Two intelligent friends, who very lately traveled along the whole western division of this canal, and along the line of the rail road over the mountain, have returned here, highly gratified with their jaunt, and with the appearance of the whole line. They state that the work along the rail road is exceedingly well done, with every promise of strength and durability, and express a very confident expectation that the tolls, during the present year, will reach $200,000, and they fully believe they will amount to nearly or quite $800,000 in the ensuing year. This estimate may appear extravagant, but one of the gentlemen, at least, is a practical man, upon whose judgment we place the utmost reliance.

MECHANICS' MAGAZINE.—We have received the Seventh number, or the first number of the Second Volume of this valuable work.—It is published in monthly numbers of sixty odd pages each, by D. K. Miner, of New York, at the very moderate price of three dollars per annum, in advance. The work is calculated to be more particularly useful to mechanics, but contains much matter which will interest the general reader.

The present number contains sixty articles, with a number of well executed wood engravings, illustrative of some of the subjects.

The work is one well suited to our latitude, and we would expect it to receive a liberal patronage in Pittsburgh.

CORRECTION.—In the last Village Record, in a long address to the National Republicans of Chester county, we noticed the following remarks:—

"The following extract, from the last Pittsburgh Gazette, one of the most zealous and ably conducted national republican papers in the State, shews the feeling which exists in that quarter. Speaking of antimasonry, the editor says—

——'The coming election will, at all events, confirm its strength or prove its weakness. We sincerely hope that it may terminate its existence, for it is a miserable cause which is identified with no measure or principle of public policy.' "

The extract, purporting to be taken from the Gazette, is much longer, but we merely give enough to identify it, and state that no such article has ever appeared in our paper.

REMINISCENCE.—The following account of the celebration, by the citizens of Pittsburgh and vicinity, of the adoption of the Constitution of the United States, by Virginia, the ninth State, is taken from the Pittsburgh Gazette, of 28th June, 1788. The speech of Mr. Brackenridge we omit for the present, but will probably find a place for it shortly.

"PITTSBURGH, June 28.—On Friday the last, the 20th inst., the news arrived at this place of the adoption of the new constitution by Virginia, making the ninth state. On Saturday evening following, the inhabitants of this town and the adjacent country, to the number of about fifteen hundred, assembled on Grant's Hill, a beautiful rising mount to the east of the town, having the two rivers, the Alleghany and Monongahela, and their junction forming the Ohio, in prospect. Occupying the verge of the hill, they were addressed by Mr. Brackenridge. * * * *

"Three cheers were now given, and the hats thrown into the air. Nine piles of wood were then lighted, representing the nine states which had adopted the constitution. At intermediate distances, four piles were left uninflamed, representing those which had not adopted it. Fire was kindled in them, but oppressed by green leaves and heavy boughs; in spite of all that could be done the pile of New Hampshire burst out, and gave a luminous splendor; that of Rhode Island not having sent delegates to the general convention, or called a convention of their own, had brimstone, tar, and feathers, thrown into it; yet, still some boughs of wood that were at the bottom, catched the flame, purged off the noxious vapor and materials. That of New York and North Carolina at length took fire, and exceeded even the other piles. The whole thirteen now in one united blaze began to burn. The youths of the village danced round them on the green; and the Indians who were present, the chiefs of several nations, on their way to the treaty at Muskingum, stood in amazement at the scene; concluded this to be a great council, seeing the thirteen fires kindled on the hill."

We extract from the List of Patents granted in December last, as published in the June number of the Journal of the Franklin Institute, the titles of two, granted to citizens of Pittsburgh, with the remarks of the editor of that valuable Journal.

" For Glass Hones for Razors, &c.; A. Gordon, and John P. Bakewell, Pittsburgh, Allegheny county, Pennsylvania, December 8.

Such a form is to be given to rods of glass as may be deemed best, a convex surface, however, being preferred to a flat one. The faces of the glass hone are to be " rough, ground, or frosted, by any of the usual means, and a grain differing in fineness may be given to the respective sides." Upon the glass hone, so prepared, the razor is to be rubbed in the usual way, the hone first being moistened with water or oil. The claim is to the application of a new material, glass, to the making of hones. A slight trial, upon a roughened glass tube, afforded us a very favorable result.

" For a Machine to be used in the art of Blowing Glass; Joshua Laird, Pittsburgh, Allegheny county, Pennsylvania, December 14.

The machine above named is intended for blowing glass knobs, for bureaus, and other detached pieces of glass, which are blown in moulds; the main part of the invention consists in the application of a forcing, or condensing pump, to the blowing of articles of the foregoing description.—A table of a suitable height, has a top, formed of a plate of cast iron, upon which are proper fixtures for sustaining the mould, into which the detached piece of glass is placed. The cylinder of the pump is secured vertically at one end of the table, and the air from it is conveyed through a leaden, or other flexible pipe, to a hole in the centre of the table, exactly under the mouth of the mould; a pipe, or nozzle, of brass, or other metal, attached to the flexible tube, passes up into the glass to be blown, and is retracted when the operation is completed, it being attached to a jointed handle, fixed for the purpose below the table. The mould, and its handles, are made in the usual way, excepting a cap plate, attached to the table, and which turns back upon a joint, when the mould is to be removed.—The centre of the under side of this plate is excavated so as to form the upper part of the mould, and is perforated so as to admit a pin to pierce the knob.

The claim is to the application of the pump in the blowing of glass, and to the crown, or cap piece, as above described."

COMMUNICATED.

ACCIDENTAL DEATH.—HENRY, an interesting little boy, son of Mr. Maguire, at the Exchange, aged about four years, was accidentally killed, this morning, about 10 o'clock—by a dray passing over his body, which caused his death in a few minutes.—The drayman was just passing the alley gate of the Exchange establishment, at the moment the little boy was coming out, and before he saw the boy, the wheel had passed over him.

LATE FOREIGN INTELLIGENCE.

LATER FROM EUROPE.

Foreign news from the continent of Europe has been brought by the New York packet from Havre, whence she sailed on the 2d of August,—bringing Paris papers of the 31st of July, and Hevre of the 1st of August.

The anniversary celebration of the three days—the 27th, 28th, and 29th of July—passed off with order and eclat, festivities and sports. The statue of Napoleon was uncovered; and the citizen King exhibited himself in public at its base, and was loudly cheered. Except from a few individuals, there was no cry of disaffection or discordance; but the journalists of Paris contend still for what they wish to have believed, and to have been done.

No additional news from Great Britain. The Grey ministry have partially prostrated the tory influence; and regained their ascendency, by the considerable majority they had in the House of Lords on the Irish Church temporalities bill—which however the tories have deprived of its best parts.

There is a report that Lisbon has been taken by Admiral Napier's squadron, and that a Spanish army of 40,000 men has entered Portugal to sustain Don Miguel; but this report is not credited. The former part may be true—but the idea of Spain risking a war with England and France, at all events, by interfering in behalf of Don Miguel is quite absurd.

The Augsburgh Gazette of the 27th inst. gives a statement from Constantinople, under date of the 10th, to the effect that "the Egyptian army having effected its retreat behind the Taurus, the Russians and auxiliary forces had that morning left the roadstead of Bujukdere, to return to the Black Sea."—Amer. Sentinel.

We have received London papers to the last of July. Bell's Messenger, of the 28th, says:—

"We regret to state that the Cholera has made its appearance in London and the vicinity, and that it appears to have naturalized itself, as it were, in this country, so that we may expect it with more or less virulence every summer. We have, within our knowledge, upwards of thirty cases of deaths from this dreadful disease, during the last week."

The following article, on the subject, is from the London Morning Chronicle.

"The Rev. W. B. Clarke, of Parkstone, in a most remarkable article, inserted in Loudon's Magazine of Natural History for the present month, entitled 'on certain recent meteoric phenomena, vicissitudes in the seasons, and prevalent disorders contemporaneous, and in supposed connection with volcanic emanations,' attributes the cholera, influenza, and epidemic disorders to volcanic emanations. The article is very long and highly interesting, and Mr. Clarke appears to make out his case in a very clear manner, by showing that wherever cholera, influenza, &c. have prevailed, earthquakes have been more or less felt, not only in our island, but in every part of the globe, and his assertions are supported by citations of cases of volcanic action, which few would suppose so numerous. In every case, an epedemic disorder has accompanied or followed this subterraneous action. The same train of argument was taken up in a work recently translated from the German, entitled 'THE BLACK DEATH.'

"Should the cholera make its appearance in England, we trust to hear of no more 'boards of health,' the last caused the loss of hundreds of thousands to British industry. They proscribed fish, fruit, and vegetables, and recommended the chlorides of lime and soda. In vain it was urged that fish, fruit, and vegetables, were the very best articles of food that could be eaten, being light and easy of digestion, care being taken that the bowels should only be kept open, and relaxed. As to the chlorides, both the English and French physicians and chemists were beside the mark. At Paris, nearly every person employed in the manufacture of the chlorides died of cholera; the learned fancied the disorder to arise from miasmata, and hence they prescribed the cloride on Guyton Morveaus's plan for disinfecting hospitals, but as to the real nature of cholera, we are as ignorant of it as at the first."

CANALS.

We copy the following paragraph from the Liverpool Chronicle of the 1st ult.

Swift Passage Boats.—For more than two years, swift boats have been employed upon the canals in the neighborhood of Glasgow, for the carriage of goods and passengers, with complete success, and in March last the Lancaster Canal Company commenced running a Light Boat upon the improved principle, between Preston and Lancaster. This succeeded to their most sanguine expectations, and they have since staged boats of the same construction, between Preston and Kendal: the whole distance, which is fifty seven miles, is performed in seven hours (including stoppages) with great ease and the most perfect safety. We hear from good authority, that the Leeds and Liverpool Canal Company are making the necessary arrangements for the introduction of this cheap and delightful mode of traveling upon their canal, and we are informed that the Grand Junction and other Canal Companies are preparing similar means of public accommodation, so that there is not the least doubt but that this system of conveyance for passengers, will very soon be general upon all the principal canals of the kingdom.

In the nursery of Messrs. Luke & Evans, Bridgewater, are strawberries, upwards of seven inches in circumference, and weighing each one ounce and a half.

Last week, in raising a large block of stone, weighing several tons, from a quarry on Combe Down, a living toad, with only three legs, (not mutilated but evidently so formed) was found on the block beneath, 40 feet below the surface. In the raised block was found a small cavity, just equal to the bulk of the toad. The animal was almost of the color of the freestone, and is still alive, and in the possession of Mr. Lankesheer, the quarryman.—Bath (Eng.) Her.

EGBERT BENSON, whose death, in the 87th year of his age, was briefly announced in our last, under the obituary head, was among the earliest and most active Whigs of the revolution; and with John Jay was one of that Committee of Safety, who at the commencement of the struggle, exercised for a time almost all the powers of this State. In Congress, in the Legislature, as Attorney General, and finally as a Judge of the Supreme Court—one of those appointed by Mr. Adams and legislated out by Mr. Jefferson—Mr. Benson was ever the same upright, zealous, and pure functionary. For many years, retired from the busy scenes of existence, he has resided in the village of Jamaica; and there calmly awaiting the reward of a well spent life, without bodily suffering, and after a brief, but not painful illness of two days, he sank to rest on Saturday evening. His faculties were clear to the last, and his death bed was as serene, as his heart was pure and his character spotless.—N. Y. Amer.

Mr. Burges and Mr. M'Duffie.—Mr. Burges, of Rhode Island, in his address to the people of that state, thus alludes to the attack made upon him a few years ago by Mr. M'Duffie.

"With one other man of South Carolina, I had a sharp encounter. He is the very Hotspur of the South; a man who measures the terms of his speech, not by the character of the question, but by his own powers of utterance. It was not in my own cause, for I believed my reputation in Congress to be your property, and that, if I did not defend that property, you might justly accuse me of deserting your interests. This man came upon me, without warning. I knew not that he had taken the least exception to any thing which I had done. No snake could more unexpectedly have uncoiled himself in the path of the traveler; nor any wild cat, with less notice, have leaped from the limb of a tree upon the naked head of the wayfaring man. He is no child, but an adversary, bold, daring, skilfull in debate, and those who encounter him may chance to know

——"What warriors feel
At foemen worthy of the steel."

He arose with a most towering arrogance; called on the reporters of the house "to mark him and write his speech in their books;" and then let down upon me such a pelting storm of abuse as echoed in every part of the hall, and turned every eye towards my devoted head. I heard the man with surprise and astonishment, but with no impatience; and kept my seat until he had exhausted himself, and sat down. What should I then have done? What would you, the people of Rhode Island, wish your representatives, in such case to do? Should I reply, or be silent, or merely stammer out an humble and submissive request for pardon? I did reply; and it was my intention, provoked as I was, by unexpected and unmerited insult, so to reply, that this same Mr. George M'Duffie should learn, that he might have a bad bargain of it, if he ever again took another whole week in preparing himself to assail "the member from Rhode Island." How I succeeded in that intention, you may know when I tell you, that from that day to the last day of the last session, nothing passed in debate between that gentleman and myself, but in terms of "high courtesy."

Foreign Ambassadors.—Mr. Buchanan, our Minister to Russia, is about to return home, after about a year's absence; for outfit, infit, and salary, he will receive $22,500. So long as the Government (by which we do not mean Andrew Jackson, nor yet Amos Kendall) adheres to the policy of giving inadequate salaries to our foreign ministers, it is not to be expected that they will remain abroad for more than a year.

When Mr. Brown was Minister at France, his large private fortune enabled him to live in a style becoming the representative of a great people, and to exercise a liberal and truly gratifying hospitality to his countrymen visiting Paris. Mr. Brown's expenses could not well have been much less than thirty thousand dollars a year, towards which the United States contributed nine thousand. How Mr. Rush remained so long at London is a problem. He was there from 1817 to 1825.

Since then our government has been represented at that court by Mr. Rufus King, Mr. John A. King (as charge) Mr. Gallatin, Mr. Lawrence (as charge) Mr. M'Lane, Mr. Washington Irving, (as charge) Mr. Van Buren, and Mr. Vail, our present charge d'Affaires. Eight different representatives in as many years, each of whom received a year's extra pay as outfit, and a quarter's salary extra on returning home. The evil of constant changes at London, Paris, and St. Petersburg, can only be avoided by either doubling the salary, or appointing only as Ministers those whose ample private fortunes will enable them to remain for a length of time abroad.—Albany Dai. Adv.

The following article is taken from the Lexington (Ky.) Intelligencer, of August 23. We publish it without comment, except that of expressing a hope that there may be some "mistake," as to the alleged conduct of the returning officers:—Balt. Pat., Aug. 29.

Most Disgraceful.—We learn, by a gentleman from Harrodsburgh, that notwithstanding Mr. LETCHER was elected from the Fifth Congressional District, by a clear and undisputed majority of 60 votes over his opponent, Mr. Moore, the Sheriffs of the District met, on Wednesday last, to compare the polls, and three of them, (a majority,) have certified to the election of Mr. Moore. This is strange news, and would be incredible, had we not received it from the most respectable source.

The circumstances, as they have been related to us, are as follow: The Sheriffs met at Harrodsburgh, on Monday, but did not come to any decision. They assembled again, on Tuesday, and organized, with the same result. On Wednesday they again met, and the method of consummating the most disgraceful design of returning Mr. Moore, notwithstanding his acknowledged defeat, having been, no doubt, previously fixed upon, the Sheriff of Lincoln county, which gave Mr. Letcher a majority of 149 votes, REFUSED TO EXHIBIT THE POLL BOOK OF THE COUNTY, without which Mr. Letcher was in a minority, which refusal being accepted by the Sheriffs of Anderson, Jessamine, and the Deputy Sheriff of Mercer, as a pretext for returning Mr. Moore, they accordingly certified to his election!

MELANCHOLY EFFECTS OF THE EARTHQUAKE.—The Stage Driver brings information that Brown's Coal Pits, at Dover, sunk in during the earthquake this morning, burying 42 negroes. The Overseer, who was here at the time, has gone up express.—Whig.

" The earth was feverish and did shake."

SHAKSPEARE.

The shock of the earthquake, felt here on Tuesday morning, was experienced, as far as we have heard from—in Washington, Baltimore, and the adjoining counties of Maryland and Virginia. A letter from the foreman of Mr. Baird's Stone Quarry, in Stafford county, (Va.) dated on Tuesday morning, says—" We had a remarkable shivering of the earth here to day: the workmen say, 'the rocks have the fever and ague.' " Gentlemen residing in the country say that sounds similar to that which preceded the shock in the morning, were heard two or three times during the day.—Alexandria Gazette.

FREDERICKSBURGH, (Vir.,) Aug. 28.

Earthquake.—A smart shock of an Earthquake was felt in this place about half past six o'clock yesterday morning, accompanied by a loud rumbling noise. Its duration was probably from ten to fifteen seconds. The vibration was very sensible, rattling the glass in the windows, and shaking the furniture in the houses. Many persons were considerably alarmed. It was indeed the severest shock remembered ever to have been felt in this place. Its course was nearly from West to East.

Georgia politics are more embroiled than ever. Previous to the late meeting, in Athens, the Nullifiers had determined upon running a third candidate (supposed to be Judge Clayton) against both the others, Lumpkin the Clark, and Crawford, the Troup candidate, now in nomination. But they then professed to discover, that Crawford, the Troup candidate, was nullifier enough, and determined upon supporting him. This event has produced a new convulsion among the parties. Some of the Troup 'Union" papers sturdily insist that it is yet doubtful whether Crawford is a nullifier, and insist upon supporting him, 'nevertheless,' as the party candidate. Others are 'bolting,' and in one of them it is proposed to run a third Troup Union candidate, against the Clark Union candidate and the Troup Nullifier. Col. Cummings is the man spoken of. There are hot times in the political world thereabouts.

It is said that some leading nullifiers, having persuaded the people of South Carolina that the late rise in the price of cotton is owing to the prevalence of Nullification there, are persuading the Georgians that if they follow in the same track, gold will rise fifty per cent.! It is just as reasonable as the other.—Balt. Amer.

From the London Athenæum.

Sir John Malcolm.—It is with pain we state that Sir John Malcolm died after a short but severe illness, at his house in Princes Street, on the 30th May, in the sixty fifth year of his age; he was all but recovered from a paralytic stroke, when he ventured out in the east wind: was attacked with influenza and hurried to the grave. His loss will be felt by his countrymen, more particularly, by persons connected with India: to worth he was kind and friendly, and to genius he ever lent, without solicitation, a helping hand. He was much beloved in Bombay, and during his lifetime, his comrades in council and in arms, ordered his statue as a companion to that of Elphinstone. He abounded in anecdote; his happy gaiety of nature and unrestrained kindness of heart, made his company acceptable to the most fastidious; nor did we ever meet with a man, who, like him, could pass so readily from the comic to the serious—could smooth his brow in the midst of the most joyous laughter, and give wholesome counsel and solemn advice.

He was known and beloved from the centre of Persia to the frontiers of the Birman Empire; he spoke the language of the East with fluency, and was intimate with the natures and social manners of all the tribes of the East. His literary works will continue his memory with honor among us: his History of the East; his Persian Sketches; his Account of John Leyden; and lastly, his Life of Lord Clive, unpublished, but completed to the last chapter, are works that cannot soon die; they show a skilful scholar, a shrewd biographer, and an accurate and eloquent historian. The close of his life may be reckoned unfortunate. Relying on the influence of his talents, the good deeds he had done, and, moreover, on his right of birth, he offered himself as a member of the Dumfries Boroughs, and was rejected.

The last time we saw Sir John was at the Abbotsford subscription meeting: he looked pale and exhausted—we still think we hear him saying, "And should all our endeavors fail—and they surely eannot—it will be a consolation to think that when on some distant day my son passes along the Tweed, and Abbotsford in ruins, he can truly say, 'My father tried to save you from destruction, but was not seconded by his country.'" Nor shall we soon forget the anecdote he told us of Lord Clive:

"When Clive was a young man, a friend called on him one day, and found him sitting with books and a pistol on the table. 'Take that pistol,' said Clive to his visiter, 'and fire it out of the window;' he did so at once; before the smoke subsided, and while the room rung with the report, Clive sprung to his feet, exclaiming, 'God has something for me to do yet—I snapped that pistol twice at my head before you come in—yet it did not go off—God has work for me yet.' " We hope a full and ample memoir will be written of this distinguished man.

Percussion Locks.—The question as to using percussion locks in the army is about to be decided in France. By experiments, made in the Hanoverian army, it appears that out of 340 muskets with percussion locks, consuming together 27,000 cartridges, there were only 21 that missed fire from the failure of the priming, and 72 from defect in the charge, making in all 93; while out of the same number of muskets with flint locks, burning the same quantity of cartridges, 1,448 missed fire from the priming, and 378 from the charge, making together 1,826. The experiments did not stop here. It was desired to ascertain the effect of firing each species of musket reiteratedly for a long time without being cleaned. Eleven committees returned that out of 22 percussion muskets, firing 11,000 shots, eight failed in the priming and six in the charge, and out of the same number of muskets with flint locks, 207 shots failed from the priming, and 599 from the charge, in all 806. Still further experiments were made both in exposing the muskets to a constant rain, by wetting the inside of the cap, and by putting a drop of water into the touch hole. The result was, that the percussion guns, after being exposed to the injuries of the weather, or even a constant rain, were much more to be relied upon than those with flint locks. Marshal Soult, who had been for a long time impressed with the advantages to be derived from the use of percussion guns, resolved to renew the above experiments in France; and last year a committee of officers, by his direction, repeated all the experiments, and their report completely establishes the supremacy of the percussion lock. At this moment, however, nearly 2,600 muskets, of all the digerent kinds, have been fitted up with percussion locks, in order to make a last and grand trial.

A letter published in the New York Albion of the tenth ultimo, examines the claim of the Duke of Modena, in Italy, to the English throne, upon principles of hereditary right, in the line of the House of Stuart. The writer undertakes to show that the late King of Piedmont, Victor Emanuel, was a descendant in a right line from Charles the 1st of England, through his daughter, Anna Maria, who married the King of Sardinia. The crown of Sardinia passed to the brother of Victor, females being excluded by the law of that kingdom; but the other hereditary rights passed to his eldest daughter, now the wife of the Duke of Modena, Frances'IV.

Another line of succession commencing with George 1st, places a descendant of one of the Bonapartes among the possible heirs of the English throne; the nineteenth, we believe, in order, among the living connections by blood with the reigning monarch.

However ingeniously these calculations may be made, little expectation can be entertained that either an Italian or a Frenchman will ever sit upon the throne of England. As political prospects now stand, a reasonable doubt may be entertained, whether, in the next generation, there will be any throne to dispute about. Royalty is getting in bad odor in England.—Balt. Amer.

The Next Presidency.—Several of the Jackson presses, of New Jersey, have avowed a preference for Judge M'Lean, as the Democratic candidate for the next Presidency. The West Jersey Observer, published at Bridgeton, says: "We go for New Jersey and John M'Lean."—Baltimore Pat. August 29.

M. Ideler, of Berlin, the Author of a work on Mathematical Chronology, has recently published a pamphlet tending to prove that Christ was born six years before the epoch assigned by history to that event, and consequently that the present year ought to be dated 1839.

Cream.—G. Carter, Esq., of England, has published a new method of obtaining cream from milk, by which more cream is obtained than in the common way. It is as follows: a four sided vessel, twelve inches long, eight wide and six deep, is formed of zinc, having a false bottom at half the depth; and a perforated zinc plate made to fit the vessel and lie upon the false bottom. Pour the new milk into the upper part of the vessel, and let it stand twelve hours; then, through an aperture or 'lip,' left for the purpose, pour as much boiling water into the lower part, and let it stand twelve hours longer. The cream will be so thick that it might be lifted off with the thumb and finger; but the better way is to lift up the perforated plate by rings at the ends, and the cream is completely separated without being at all mixed with milk; from numerous experiments, it appears that in this way, four gallons of milk will yield 4 1-2 pints of "clotted cream," and 40 ounces of butter, being an increase of 12 1-2 per cent. of cream, and 11 per cent. of butter, over the common method.—Greenfield Gaz.

Bottled Tears.—In some of the mourning assemblies of the Persians, it is the custom of the priest to go about to each person at the height of their grief, with a piece of cotton in his hand, with which he carefully collects the falling tears, and which he then squeezes into a bottle, preserving them with the greatest caution. This practically illustrates the 56th Psalm, 8th verse—"Put thou my tears into a bottle." Some Persians believe that in the agony of death, when all medicines have failed, a drop of tears so collected, put into the mouth of a dying man, has been known to revive him; and it is for such a use that they are collected.

A Cheshire farmer was lately asked by the minister, how it was that, when he preached, the farmer always fell asleep, but, when a stranger preached, he was all attention. The farmer replied—"Why, sir, when ye preaches I know aw's right; but, when a stranger preaches, I canna trust him, and so I keeps a good look out."

It is a singular fact that at the very time the news papers in this country have been complaining of the rapid increase of crime among us, those of London should be congratulating their readers on its decrease in that metropolis. One paragraph in a London journal lying before us says—

It has been remarked that fewer charges for criminal offences have been made at Bow street and at the other Police offices of the metropolis within the last month than have been known during the same period for many years before.

And another runs as follows—

The decrease in the criminal business at most of the present assize seems to indicate a favorable change in the state of crime in the country. At the Dorset assizes there were 12 prisoners in the calendar; at Sailsbury the number was smaller than at any period since 1811; at the Lincoln county assizes there were only 9 prisoners; at the Lincoln city assizes there were none. At the Rutland assizes, also, there were no prisoners to try. The Judge, in his charge to the Grand Jury, remarked, in the whole of his experience he had met with no similar instance, exept once, in the county of Westmoreland. At the Lincolnshire assizes Mr. Justice Taunton expressed a hope "that the reduced number of criminals was an earnest of an increased diminution of crime, and that the crimes with which we were threatened have entirely subsided." The learned Judge also "trusted we are now approaching to comparatively good times."

From the New York American.

These are beautiful lines—simple, touching, and most true.

THE CONSUMPTIVE.

'Twas nothing that her simplest smile was worth
A seraph's brightest—nothing that her eye,
Or rolling bright or brightly calm, gave birth
To all the freshness of life's morning sky:
The blight that desolates the household hearth
Came o'er her, and she knew that she must die.
Then bow'd her gentle head beneath the blow
Which laid, at once, earth's hope and mercy low
And her pure cheek grew cold and darkly pale
As snows by mountain caverns hid from day—
It was as if a shadow of the vale
Of death had fallen on her living clay.
And waited, ere all hold on earth should fall
To fit her soul to walk that gloomy way:
And teach her breast to shudder at the doom
Which gather'd round to darken o'er her tomb.
Sometimes—as if she kindled at the art
Of him who subtly woo'd her—a warm flame
That fir'd anew each chill and pallid part
With vital lustre, glided through her frame.
Yet, drop by drop, life left her weary heart,
Till, failing like a springless fount, she came
To human nothingness—a faded flower
That knew a world to bloom upon no more. E. L.

Paper Mill for Sale.

THE Extensive Establishment, known as the Soft Spring Paper Mill, now in the occupancy of C. Lukens & Co. is offered for sale.—Its situation is both desirable and healthy, possessing local advantages superior to any mill in the west, with a spring of pure, soft water, yielding a superabundance for all purposes—propelled by an engine sufficiently powerful, and to which has recently been added an entire New Machine for the manufacture of paper. Its location is about two miles from the city, on the Eastern Turnpike. The subscribers have no hesitation in believing it offers inducements to purchasers highly advantageous.

The terms will be rendered satisfactory, and but a small portion of the purchase money required at the time of sale, with an extended credit for the residue, being determined to make an early disposal. It will be sold low. Application made personally, or by communication, to either of the subscribers, will be attended to.

PROSPECT HILL

Literary & Scientific Institution.

PITTSBURGH, Pa.

ON the 1st of July, Mr. DANIEL STONE intends opening, near the City of Pittsburgh, an Institution for the instruction of boys. Its plan is to combine, as far as possible, the peculiar advantages of a domestic and public education.—The pupils, with the principal and assistants, will constitute one family, and be at all times under careful supervision. The Discipline will be mild, but strict, such as a father, solicitous for the welfare of his children, would exercise over them. It is believed that an appeal to reason, and the sense of honor and duty, will generally secure obedience. Coercive measures will, therefore, be adopted only in extreme cases.

The Course of Study will embrace the English, Latin, Greek, and French Languages; Arithmetic, Algebra, and Geometry; Geography and History—Ancient and Modern; Rhetoric, Composition, and Elocution; Natural Philosophy and Chemistry; Penmanship, Orthography, and Reading. Frequent examinations will be held, open to the friends and relations of the youths.

The Mode of Instruction will be thorough and critical, and no subject will be relinquished until fully understood. That the scholar's mind may become vigorous, active, and self-confident—prepared for the stern conflicts of life, and a fearless discharge of its duties, he will be encouraged to reason and decide for himself.

Each student will be required to attend such church as his parent or guardian shall designate.

To preserve health and elasticity of spirits, to check indolence, and promote industry among the students, they will be daily exercised in athletic sports.

Pupils will be admitted between the ages of Six and Sixteen. None can be received for less than one term.

The uniform Dress will consist of a cap, blue roundabout, with metal buttons, and blue pantaloons. Every article of clothing should be marked with the owner's name in full.

The Terms are two hundred dollars a year, payable quarterly in advance. This includes Tuition, Board, Lodging, Washing, Mending, Light, and Fuel.

The Vacations, after the present year, will be three—the 1st, of two weeks, from the 3d Wednesday in April; the 2d, of four weeks, from the 2d Wednesday in August; and one week at Christmas.

The Matron's department will be under the care of Mrs. Reynolds, of this city.

New Theatre, Pittsburgh.

THE Public is respectfully informed, that this ELEGANT NEW THEATRE, at present building, in Fifth Street, will be opened for the Season, under the management of the subscriber, with a Dramatic Company not surpassed by any in the Union, on Monday, the Second of September, 1833.

The building has been substantially erected, by those well known Mechanics, Messrs. Roseburg, Reynolds, Scott, & McCulloch, after a plan drawn by John Haviland, Esq., of Philadelphia, whose justly acquired fame as an Architect will be increased by the style and Beauty of the Present Edifice.

A first rate London Artist has been employed, for the last three months, in preparing the Dresses especially for this Theatre, which, in point of

ELEGANCE AND SPLENDOR,

Will equal, if not surpass those belonging to the Metropolitan Theatres of New York, or Philadelphia.

THE SCENERY

Has been designed and executed by Mr. J. R. Smith, a young Artist of great talent, and whose productions may challenge comparison with those of the most distinguished Scene Painters of the day.

THE MACHINERY

Has been entrusted to the care of Mr. Stafford, late of the Philadelphia Theatres, and the direction of the

MECHANICAL DEPARTMENT

Will be placed under the Superintendence of Mr. Hoffner, of the Chesnut Street Theatre, Philadelphia.

In addition to the exertions of the Regular Company, most of whom are advantageously known in the Eastern Theatres, the Manager has great pride and pleasure in informing the inhabitants of Pittsburgh and its vicinity, that he has engaged, at great expense, the celebrated American Tragedian

MR. E. FORREST,

Who will have the honor of appearing before them at an early period, of which due notice will be given. Negotiations have already been entered into with the most distinguished Performers of the American Stage, who will appear in rapid succession—among others,

MR. & MRS. HILSON,
MISS CLARA FISHER,
MRS. KNIGHT,
MR. J. R. SCOTT,

Also, Mr. PARSLOE, of the Theatre, Covent Garden, London, &c. &c. &c.

In making these arrangements, the subscriber has used every exertion in his power to render THE THEATRE a place of rational amusement—

"To raise the genius and to mend the heart;
Shew Virtue her own features;
Vice her own image;
The age and body of the time, his form and pressure."

And he throws himself confidently on the liberality of the citizens of Pittsburgh for support.

PERIODICALS.

AMERICAN RAILROAD JOURNAL, and Advocate of Internal Improvements, which is designed as a repository of the accounts of the rise and progress of numerous works of Internal Improvement, in the United States particularly, and in other parts of the world generally. The work is published weekly, and forms a large octavo volume each year, of 832 pages of 3 columns each, for $3 per annum, in advance.

New York Farmer, and American Gardener's Magazine. This work is designed for the agriculturist, and will be found to contain much, both interesting and profitable, to those who cultivate the soil as a business, or merely a garden for amusement. Published in monthly parts of 32 large octavo pages, with three columns each, at $3 per annum, in advance.

Mechanics' Magazine, and Register of Improvements and Inventions. To the Mechanics of the United States---In this populous and enlightened country, almost every description of persons can obtain knowledge and amusement connected with their peculiar pursuits, through the medium of the Journal or Magazine, especially devoted to their interests. The Theologian, the Farmer, the Philosopher, the Sportsman, and even the Plough Boy, has each his Journal, where he can find a record of the passing events of the day, connected with his peculiar avocations and recreations. Hitherto, the Mechanics (who form a large and most important portion of the community) have had no Journal, to which they could turn, with the certainty of finding that information they desire, no periodical of which they could say: 'This is ours, and for us.' In the hope that the attempt to supply such a want at a price so reasonable as to be within the reach of all, will meet with your active support, the subscriber proposes to publish, on the first day of each month, a Mechanics' Magazine. It will contain a well digested selection of the most useful and interesting articles in the London Mechanics' Magazine, London Register of Arts and Sciences, Repertory of Inventions, Library of Useful Knowledge, Journal of the Franklin Institute, and other works, connected with the arts and manufactures, published in this country and in Europe, accompanied with numerous and well executed Engravings. Its pages will be open for the communications of all, and especially for those of the practical artisan, to whose interest it will be particularly devoted. The Mechanics' Magazine will contain, also, a due portion of the occurrences of the month, Scientific and Literary Reviews of Books, Anecdotes, Economical Receipts, Reports of the state of Mechanics' Institutions, and other Scientific Societies in this state and other countries. To be published monthly. Each succeeding number will contain 64 pages, handsomely printed, and stitched in a neat cover. Six numbers will form a volume, for which an index and title page will be supplied, and also a Portrait of some distinguished Mechanic, as a Frontispiece. Terms, $3 per annum, in advance.

SATIN BEAVER HAT MANUFACTORY,

NO. 6 ST. CLAIR STREET,
PITTSBURGH.

WILSON & SMITH, from N. York,

RESPECTFULLY inform the citizens of Pittsburgh and the neighboring towns, that they have commenced the manufacture of the above beautiful and elegant article, so much admired and worn throughout Europe, and the principal cities in the United States.

W. & S. beg leave to observe, that, after various experiments, they have at last succeeded in bringing this Hat to the highest state of perfection, and they can assert, with confidence, that in point of color, lightness, elasticity, durability, and general beauty of appearance, they cannot be surpassed by the most expensive Hat that is made. Gentlemen are invited to call and examine them, and judge for themselves.

Wholesale Dealers supplied at the same prices as in the New York markets.

DOCTOR ROBERT'S

☞ WELCH MEDICAMENTUM. ☜

FOR the cure of Dyspepsia, Liver Complaints, Jaundice, Cholic, Fever and Ague, Dysentery, Headach, Loss of Appetite, Flatulence, Hypochondria, Hysterics, Dropsical Complaints, and Heartburn, It also prevents all Bilious disorders, and removes habitual Costiveness, Asthma, Strangury, Gravel, Rheumatism, Gout, and Impurities of the Blood.

A person who uses this Medicamentum will not require the use of the lancet, or any means of the healing art. It restores and revives the animal spirits, invigorates the system, removes nervous tremors, obtunds rheumatic and anthritic pains, and prevents their return. It cleanses the stomach of all morbid humors, which cause indigestion, acidities, headach, and lowness of spirits; cures all bilious disorders, and all cholics of the stomach and bowels, almost immediately; inspires cheerfulness; gives comfort to the dropsical; takes away palpitation of the heart; gives circulation to the blood; restores bloom to the sallow or sickly cheek, and plumpness to the meagre habit; purges without pain, and banishes all cause of fever of every kind. It acts on the stomach, that great reservoir of the human system, a diseased state of which causes all diseases. No alteration in the usual habits of life is required, but the abstaining from distilled ardent spirits.

CERTIFICATE,

From Rev. Derick Lansing, D. D., Pastor of the Second Presbyterian Church in Utica.

Utica, Jan. 6, 1830.

To Dr. Hitchcock.—Dear Sir: I have always been one of the number of those who have placed little confidence in nostrums or specifics, and for this reason, although I saw your advertisement of the Welch Medicamentum, I could not bring my mind to consent to use it. My sufferings, from indigestion, during the past summer, were so severe, as materially to affect my comfort, and my capacity for usefulness. I have reason to thank you, sir, that, on hearing of the state of my health, you kindly sent me your Medicamentum. I have taken it faithfully, and with entire success. I have not been visited with one of those turns of distress, which before were weekly periodical, since I began to take your valuable medicine. Could I receive the same relief which I have hitherto experienced, on condition of taking it for life, I should cheerfully comply with such condition. Your's, very truly, D. C. LANSING.

ANTI-DYSPEPTIC ELIXER.

ONE of the most agreeable and efficacious Medicines ever discovered for the permanent cure of those chronic states of derangement of the stomach, constituting that miserable disease called Dyspepsia.

The basis of this Elixer is vegetables, and perfectly innocent in its operation; it destroys that sour state of the stomach, the instant it is taken, and stops the morbid secretion, by giving strength to the muscular fibre of that important organ, by which means the peristaltic motion of the intestines is increased, and the costiveness obviated; a new action is given to the system, which puts an end to a train of distressing nervous sensations.

Another form of the disease in which the Elixer is admirably calculated to relieve, is the decline of fever, where the stomach will not bear the ordinary strengthening medicines indicated in such cases, it has the surprising effect of giving vigor, and restoring the natural secretions of the body, without increasing the febrile state. Not the least danger is to be apprehended from exposure to cold, while under the use of this medicine, nor will it interrupt necessary employment of the patient a single hour.

☞ A number of cases of cures performed by the Anti-Dyspeptic Elixer in the vicinity of Pittsburgh can be given.

GEO. W. CARPENTER'S
COMPOUND SYRUP OF LIVERWORT,

A SAFE and Valuable Medicine for Coughs, Spitting of Blood, Consumption, and Liver Complaints.

Most of the medicines made use of for the above diseases are of a stimulating nature, composed generally of Resins and Balsams, in alcoholic solutions, which, although sometimes giving temporary relief, in almost every instance where they are freely used, aggravate the disease, and reduce the strength of the patient.

This article possesses superior advantages over these preparations, its action being of a tonic, invigorating and strengthening nature, thus overcoming the disease by promoting expectoration, and gradully increasing the strength of the patient, and thus, without being attended with any unpleasant effects: it also agrees with the stomach, in all cases, and is a pleasant medicine to take.

PATENT PLANING MACHINE.—The right to use this valuable machine, invented and patented by William Woodworth, and known as Woodworth's Patent Planing Machine, may be obtained on application to the subscriber for the counties of Allegheny, Butler, Beaver, Washington, Green, Fayette, Somerset, Cambria, Indiana, Jefferson, Clearfield, M'Kean, Warren, Venango, Mercer, Crawford, and Erie, in the State of Pennsylvania. That part of Maryland lying west of the Blue Ridge; all that part of Virginia lying west of the Blue Ridge, except the county of Ohio. The whole of the state of Ohio except the counties of Hamilton, Butler, and Montgomery. The whole of the state of Kentucky, except the counties of Jefferson, Boone, Oldham, Gallatin, and Campbell. The whole of Indiana, except the counties of Floyd, Clark, Jefferson, Dearborn, and Switzerland. The whole of the state of Illinois, and the territory of Michigan. Rights to use the machine in that part of the United States, named above, will be sold by the single county or in larger districts. As it is presumed that no one will purchase without seeing the machine at work, a description of it is deemed unnecessary. Should any person, however, wish to purchase, and find it inconvenient to visit the places where it is in operation, a machine will be furnished, warranted to plane, tongue and groove, and bring to an exact width and thickness, a white pine board of 12 feet long, and of any width from 1 to 14 inches, in one minute and ten seconds, or an oak board of the same dimensions in 2 minutes and 10 seconds. Machines may be seen at work in the cities of New Orleans, Washington, Philadelphia, New York, Boston, and others at the south and east, at Wheeling, Virginia, and at the saw mill of Messrs. Irwin & Herron, in this city.

Persons desiring to purchase will have the certificates of scientific and practical men who have seen it at work, in the different places in which it has been put up, forwarded to them. They give their opinion as to the great value of the invention, state the time they have seen boards dressed by this machine, and describe the quality of the work as compared with that performed by hand labor.

VALUABLE PROPERTY FOR SALE.

THE Subscriber offers for sale the farm on which he lives, in Washington county, on Pigeon creek, one mile south of Williamsport, on the Monongahela river, to which there is a perfectly level road. This farm contains near 400 acres, the greater part of which is first rate land. There is on the premises a Brick Dwelling House, a Merchant mill, in good repair, a new saw mill, a stone still house, 35 by 40 feet; a salt works is also in operation, and worked to advantage; about 150 acres of land cleared and under good fence. There is on the premises three small tenements for the accommodation of families. This tract is well timbered, and abounds with stone coal and springs of water, both of the best quality.

To a person wishing to embark in a manufacturing business, and possessing capital, this would be a very desirable situation, having the advantage of both water power from Pigeon creek, and banks of the very best coal near to the works, and easy of access, and its vicinity to so navigable a river, where articles of any kind are so cheaply transported to Pittsburgh.

For further particulars, apply to James P. Stuart, Merchant, Wood street, Pittsburgh, or to the subscriber on the premises.

To Baltimore and Philadelphia

TRAVELLERS.

THE LINE OF STAGES between Chambersburgh and Baltimore, on the Somerset and Mountpleasant route, has been doubled, and now runs DAILY, (Mondays excepted,) leaving Chambersburgh at day-light in the morning, and arriving in Baltimore, early the same evening.

Passengers reach Philadelphia, in this way, the second afternoon, from Chambersburgh, without the loss of any rest; taking the splendid STEAM BOAT LINES, which set out at 6 o'clock in the morning, [via CHESAPEAKE AND DELAWARE CANAL, a work well worth the trip to see.]

REESIDE, Owner.

In all cases where the passengers desire to reach Baltimore in time for the 5 o'clock steam-boat to Philadelphia, they can do so by leaving Chambersburgh at one o'clock in the morning, or immediately after the arrival of the Western Mail Stage. In this way, they arrive in Philadelphia, by eight o'clock the second morning, from Chambersburgh.

☞ When a load offers, the stage will run on Mondays. April 23, 1830.—tf.

TYPE FOUNDRY.

HAVING purchased of Mr. Richard Ronaldson, his long established and very extensive Type Foundry, the subscribers have formed a co-partnership for the purpose of continuing said business, and for the convenience of their friends and patrons, have removed their establishment to a more central part of the city. As it is their intention to keep on hand a good assortment of the best type, and to make such additions and improvements as the taste of the trade and the wants of the country require, they flatter themselves that this establishment will merit a large share of patronage. They have now several founts on hand, which can be furnished at a few hours' notice, and are prepared to make founts of all weights and sizes, from Pearl to 22 lines Pica, including a variety of Ornamental Letter. Their assortment of Cuts, Dashes, Brass Rule, and other Ornaments, will be found to be very extensive, of which specimens will be forwarded to Printers as soon as they can be prepared.

Printing Presses of every description, Printing Ink of the most approved qualities, Composing Sticks, Brass and Common Galleys, Chases, Imposing Stones, Cases, Paper and Press Boards, Standing Presses, Furniture, together with a complete assortment of all articles used in a Printing Office, will be kept constantly on hand.

Small founts, suitable for Book Binders, in great variety, may be had when called for.

Orders from all parts in the Union will be promptly and most carefully attended to, and particularly in supplying sorts for all founts furnished by their predecessors, Binny & Ronaldson, and Richard Ronaldson.
